DELINQUENT STORE LICENSES

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 2.—James W. Martin, commissioner of revenue, announced today that approximately 9,000 taxpayers have not obtained their store licenses for the 1937-1938 fiscal year. This license tax became delinquent after July 1, 1937. The statute provides a 20 percent penalty and 6 percent interest for failure to file application and pay the tax before the due date and in addition provides a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $1,000 for persons convicted of operating their place of business without the proper license.

Commissioner Martin indicated that the 9,000 delinquent merchants who secured their licenses last year had been amply notified that the tax was due, and said that the department would soon start prosecuting all persons failing to comply with the provisions of the store license tax act. He urged merchants to forward their applications and proper remittances to the department of revenue, Frankfort, Ky., at once.

Let's win! Vote for Ben F. Kennard.

Circuit court will convene here on Monday.

Tobacco is called a weed, but is really a very valuable farm crop.

Mrs. G. W. Leslie of Cannel City was a business visitor here Monday.

The X mark on your ballot Saturday is the final campaign argument.

It will pay to take a little time off and save your valuable fruit trees that are overladen by picking off some of the fruit.

Mr. and Mrs. Drexel Smith of Seymour, Ill., came in Sunday to visit Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Elam, of Liberty Road, and her grandfather, James W. Elam, of Greer, and Mr. Smith's grandmother, Mrs. Susie Smith, of Twenty-six. They expect to be in the county until about August 15.

WANT TO BUY

- 1 Old-fashioned Dropleaf 6-leg type Table.
  - 1 Old Corner Cupboard.
  - 1 Old Poster Bed, either of Cherry or Walnut wood.
- Will pay $5 to $15, depending on condition.
- Write me of any old furniture you have to sell.

Beauty Hints By Jane Heath

"HOW can I swim in the after-noon and still keep my hair groomed for dinner?"

This is the great summer beauty problem of thousands of American girls who lead active, outdoor lives all day yet insist on looking coiffed and smartly dressed in the evening.

And here's the answer—a new and practical idea.

Make swimming an asset instead of a liability to your hair. Use the time—and the bathing cap—to give yourself a fresh curl with "wavyers" made just for this purpose. These little, green rubber curlers now come in a new nidget size which tuck trimly under a rubber cap to hold your wave while you swim. Only their small size and softness make possible this new beauty secret.

To keep the hair neat at the back of the neck, insert ends of the hair in the slit. Roll up on the wavyers as high as possible, to keep hair out of the water. Fold the rubber ends underneath and button them together out of sight under the hair as shown in the sketch. Then, if water does seep through in spite of all efforts, the rolls are so neatly wound that the bathing cap can be removed without embarrassment. The hair will dry quickly in its original "set," in about the time it takes to drive home from the beach. And now, refreshed from your swim, with the evening before you, remove the wavyers, and find rows of soft ringlets ready to go places with your most glamorous dance frock.

COX FOR MAGISTRATE

To the voters of magisterial district 2: I take this method of announcing myself for magistrate, and I wish to state my position on a few of the many things that come before the fiscal court.

First, I favor a strict system of economy so as to be able at all times to pay each and every claim presented for payment.

I favor an equal distribution of the county funds to the rural sections of the county so the people may get the benefits in the way of good roads and bridges.

As a magistrate I will use my influence to have the fiscal court take advantage of the aid offered by the national and state governments and thus make work for our people and secure much needed public improvements.

If elected I promise to visit every section of my district and see that all sections have the best of service in the way of bridges and roads, and will do all for them a magistrate can do.

I favor a strict enforcement of the law so as to protect churches, schools, and homes, and all public gatherings.

Money spent on roads and bridges which will enable the country people to get to and use the main highways is a money well spent.

On this I most earnestly beg your support. If elected I will be a servant of the people and not of any one man or set of men. I know what it is to live away from things. I want to help you all.

Your influence and support solicited.

A FINE TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Shouse and little daughter Mary Edith and Mrs. Shouse's sister, Miss Anna Ruth Lykins, returned Sunday from a trip that lasted about 18 days.

They first went to Mr. and Mrs. Shouse's home in Wheeling, W. Va. From there they went to see Niagara Falls. Round Top, in the Catskill mountains, N. Y., came next. Here they visited Mr. Shouse's grandfather, made a tour of the Catskill mountains and saw the famous Mountain House view, where they could see four states, New York, Connecticut, New Hampshire, and Vermont.

They went down the Hudson river to New York City. They saw the Riverside Drive church, built and supported by Rockefeller, and the Empire State building. They went to Radio City, where they visited the music hall and saw the dancers, Rocketts, who represented the United States in the Paris exhibition this summer. They took a boat trip to see the Statue of Liberty. While in New York they tried all methods of travel, including the elevated, subway, and Fifth avenue bus.

From New York City they went to Philadelphia. Here they went into the U. S. mint and Constitution Hall, where they saw the Liberty Bell.

Our national capital came next. As Mr. and Mrs. Shouse had been there before, they put Anna Ruth on an excursion bus. She saw so many things she can't tell about them all. While in Washington they visited Mr. Shouse's brother, John Shouse, and wife, who is a sister to Mrs. Yandal Wrather of this place.

They came up the Shenandoah valley and on to Knoxville, Tenn. Skyline Drive, south of Washington, was well worth the few extra miles it required, and should not be missed by anyone traveling in that part of the country. In Knoxville they visited a few days with another brother of Mr. Shouse, Francis Shouse.

From Knoxville, Tenn., to Danville, Ky., where they visited a week with Mr. Shouse's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Shouse are with Mrs. Shouse's mother, Mrs. J. D. Lykins, here, this week, and expect to leave next Tuesday for their home in Wheeling, W. Va.

IN REMEMBRANCE

In loving remembrance of my dear husband, and my dear father, Stanley May, who passed away one year ago today.

In our home he is fondly remembered, And we weep and miss his presence, And our hearts are filled with pain; But we know he feasts on heavenly manna,

And our loss was heaven's gain. But sweet memories will always cling to his name,

For we loved him in life so sincerely We love him in death just the same.—His wife and little son, Mrs. Mildred May and Scottie.

ANNOUNCES PLATFORM

To the Democratic voters of Morgan county:

Here are some of the things I will try to do if you will elect me to represent Morgan county in the next session of the legislature:

I have always worked for the public school system. I believe the state per capita allowance should be raised to $15. I hope also to be able to secure funds and a law to furnish free textbooks to all grade and high school pupils in our state.

The state primary highway system should now take over and maintain the various WPA roads. The state contribution to counties for rural roads should be continued and the free road law should be repealed. All highways in the state primary road system should be hard surfaced as soon as possible after being built.

I favor raising the old age pension in our state to the limit which the federal government will match, up to a total of $45 a month, and including among those eligible widows of any age, the physically handicapped, and the blind.

The federal government realizes the importance of a local health unit, and is very liberal in its offer of help to maintain such a unit in each county. I believe the legislature should make it possible for each county to have this health protection. I will oppose a $2 poll tax for women.

I will favor a liberal state appropriation for relief.

Fish and game in our state are supervised by one department of government and there is no good reason why there should be a separate license required for each one. One license should be enough for both. Persons fishing with a hook and line should be allowed to fish without license.

One dog tax-free should be allowed to every family, and I will endeavor to have the dog law changed to allow this.

I favor amending the automobile operators' license law to do away with the yearly license, making an operator's license permanent unless revoked for cause.

I am interested very much in the same things you are, and will be glad to confer with anyone any time. I stand for what I believe to be the best interests of Morgan county and Kentucky. Your vote and active support will enable me to serve you.

WEST LIBERTY STILL GOING

The West Liberty ball team is still wading thru all opposition in the Kentucky Valley League. Sunday they met the rejuvenated team from Bowen and beat them 5-2.

After trailing most of the way, Bowen drew first blood in first and another run in the third and held a two run lead until the seventh, when Brown, who had replaced Davis in right field, was hit by a pitched ball, then Carl Elam stepped up and slapped a mighty triple to left for the first West Liberty run. Then in the eighth the boys really went after the game by hammering four runs across before the rally was squashed there by salvaging the game to keep their state clean for the season.

Next Sunday the boys go to Beattyville to pit their record and prowess against the strong Beattyville team, which holds the first half championship. The boys are playing a class of ball you will be pleased to see. So desert the slacker class and come out and watch the team play at their next home game, which will be played here Aug. 15 against Jackson, and give the boys financial as well as moral support.

NOTICE

To certified WPA and NYA workers who are awaiting reassignment:

It will be necessary under the new social security act for all unassigned WPA employees to have social security account numbers before being eligible to be reassigned to WPA employment.

Information on how to secure such numbers may be had at my office. It is not necessary for those, however, who have been continuously employed on WPA to apply.

FAMILY REUNION

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Davis of Bascom on Sunday, Aug. 1.

Children present were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Redwine, Morehead; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Blair, West Liberty; J. B. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Davis, Ashland; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. David Davis Jr., and Miss Guthrie Davis, Sandy Hook.

Grandchildren present were Eloise and Orville Redwine, Billy, Johnny, and Pauline Faye Blair, Muriel, Donald, Emory Ernest, Roger, and Etta Ruth Davis.

Other relatives and friends present were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thompson and family, Paul, Lucy, Mary, Charles, and Thomas, Mrs. Hurst, and Mr. and Mrs. Oney Darossett and daughter Nancy, of Sharpsburg, and Mrs. Louisa McClain of West Liberty.

A plentiful dinner was served and a wonderful time was enjoyed by all.

Phooey!

A hitch-hiking tramp found his way into the city jail at Barboursville. He was disturbed in the small hours of the night by a strange bedfellow who kept tugging at his heavy crop of unkempt hair. The next morning the occupant of the cell complained to the jailer and asked if he knew what kind of an animal it was that had stuck to him so closely during the night. Upon investigating, the jailer found it was the fire department's pet skunk.

Here from Kansas

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McClain and three youngest children, Mazie, Henrietta, and Barbara, of Rossville, Kansas, arrived in town Saturday. They stopped to see Mr. McClain's aunt, Mrs. Ollie McClain. As this was the first time he had been here in 19 years, it took her a while to realize who he was. They will visit friends and relatives throughout the county for about a month before returning to their home. Ulysses Trimble and Doan Caskey, of this county, who had been visiting in Kansas, came with them.

Here from Ohio

Ansel Fugett and Miss Lillian Fugett, of Foster, Ohio, and Kenneth Wells of Middletown, Ohio, came in Sunday. They started back yesterday, talking with them Mr. Fugett's mother and sister, Mrs. Joe Fugett and daughter Janice, who had been visiting here for two weeks. Mr. Wells' mother and sister, Mrs. Claud Wells and daughter Lorene, also accompanied them and will visit them and Miss Elizabeth Wells, of Middletown, Ohio.

Visit in Floyd County

Mrs. Walter Davis and Will and Buford Wells went to Floyd county Sunday to see their brother, Ned Wells, who had a foot badly mashed when a telephone pole which he had climbed fell over with him. Ned Wells lives at Langley and will be laid up for some time.

REWARD FOR RETURN

LOST: A ladies' hand purse, large, white, patent leather, with zipper and hand strap, containing some money. Liberal reward will be paid for return to MRS. R. F. NICKELL, West Liberty, Ky. (Adv.)

EXPLAINS VOTE LAW

Rules of the primary election are explained by the county clerk of Morgan county, the assistant attorney general, as follows:

You have heard the attorney general make it two been referred to me, in which you it part of the right of certain persons, and referred as Republicans in the last general election to change their party affiliations and vote in the Democratic primary.

We have given an opinion heretofore, to which we still adhere, that this is not permissible under the law; that those voters are illegal voters in the Democratic primary and are amenable to the penalties set out in the law, as well as the election officers who permit them to vote. We are for France, Walter B. Brown, Lang Hopkins.

When these voters change their party affiliation you should note the change in the election officers should be changed. ## 'Aw, Let's Go Home!'

WILL Supreme court bill recommended to the senate judiciary committee, a new substitute bill for reform of only the lower courts due to be reported out of the committee, and a new senate majority leader or selected to take the late Senator Robinson's place, the overwhelming sentiment of the members of the seventy-fifth congress was to pack up their bags and get as far away from Washington as possible.

Even measures which President Roosevelt had insisted bear the "must" label were being shoved aside with dispatch, as Vice President Garner sought to heal the party wounds inflicted during the bitter court battle and salvage as much of the President's legislation as he could. The first to be buried was the new AAA and "ever-normal granary" bill; the senate agriculture committee shelved it until the next session. The committee authorized James P. Pope, Idaho Democrat and co-sponsor of the bill, to prepare a senate resolution to lay the plans for regional hearings on a comprehensive farm program during the remainder of the summer and report back in January.

It seemed certain that the President's legislation for governmental reorganization would be left over until next session when the record of three months' hearings by the joint congressional committee was made public. It was revealed that committee members have not even come close to agreement on any of the main points involved.

Majority Leader Barkley said that the White House still wanted the wages and hours bill, the Wagner low-cost housing bill and a judiciary bill passed, as well as legislation to plug tax loopholes. The Wagner bill, meanwhile, was reported out of committee, and it was expected the senate would act upon it quickly. It would set up a federal housing authority with power to issue $700,000,000 in bonds over three years to make loans for "low-cost" housing construction.

'Glory Be to God!'

DYING for weeks, the scheme to add to the number of justices of the Supreme court finally choked its last gasp and left this world. On a roll-call vote the United States senate voted to recommit the Robinson substitute for the President's original bill to the judiciary committee. The vote was 70 to 20, the most crushing defeat the President's legislation has yet suffered at the hands of a house of congress.

In an agreement made at a session of the judiciary committee earlier, it had been decided to let the opposition senators write their own bill, an innocuous measure for "judicial reform" not dealing in any way with the Supreme court. Senator Barkley, the new majority leader, attempted to save the President's face by having the bill left on the calendar, but he never had a chance. When the roll-call came, even Senators Ashurst of Arizona and Minton of Indiana, two of the Supreme court bill's chief supporters, voted to recommit.

"Glory be to God!" said Sen. Hiram Johnson (Rep., Calif.) when the results of the roll call were made known. The applause that belled forth from the senators and gallery alike left no doubt that the veteran from California had voiced the sentiments of the great majority.

Madrid's Moat of Blood

THE Spanish government was defending Madrid against the insurgent forces in the most terrible battle of the entire civil war and the most important. It couldn't last; it was too furious. The whole loyalist cause apparently rested on resisting this, the most vicious attack the rebels had yet made. Gen. Francisco Franco's army, under his personal supervision, was making advances, but at such loss of men that the cost might be too great. Insurgents stormed loyalist entrenchments directly in the face of point blank machine guns. Losses were so terrible that thousands of wounded thousands already dead and decaying in the hot sun. Infantry, tanks, cavalry and artillery were supplemented by airplane bombers.

In one salient 250,000 men were fighting, including the cream of both armies. The loyalist position was admittedly the most serious of the whole war, and upon the government's ability to withhold against the attack rested the fate of the city. The loyalists had reported that 20,000 Italian troops had joined the rebels for the battle.

While the Madrid conflict was in full swing, the insurgents sprang a surprise air attack on Barcelona. In the early dawn advance planes dropped flares which lighted up the city. Then came additional planes, dropping bombs on the easy target and turning machine guns on citizens who attempted to flee. At least 65 persons were killed and 150 injured.

Is This the Beginning?

AS JAPAN brought airplanes into action for the first time since the new Sino-Japanese crisis developed, and threw all available strength into a campaign against the Chinese Twenty-ninth army in North China, it was feared that the expected long Japanese military offensive had begun. While it was difficult to assimilate many conflicting and confusing reports, there was good ground for the belief that all attempts at a truce had failed, for a while at least.

The Japanese airmen rained bombs upon Chinese military barracks around Peiping, and pressed infantry and artillery attacks along the Peiping-Tientsin railway and the highway to the sea. Entrance of 500 Japanese marines into the Chinese Chapei district of Shanghai sent 20,000 men, women and children fleeing into the international settlement in search of protection. It was rumored a Chinese mob had killed a Japanese sailor, provoking Japanese reprisals.

Meanwhile the threat of real war continued to hover as the Chinese army refused to leave positions in and near Peiping, in what Japan considered violation of the Tientsin peace agreement.

Barkley, 38; Harrison, 37

SEN WILLIAM H. DIETRICH of Illinois changed his mind at the last minute and today Alben W. Barkley, hard-fisted, blustering senator from Kentucky, is the majority leader of the United States senate, succeeding the late Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas. The vote was 38 for Barkley to 37 for Sen. Pat Harrison of Mississippi.

The conservative Democrats in the senate had been assured of 38 votes, enough to elect Harrison, on the eve of the secret election. But that night Dietrich, apparently under pressure from the Democratic party organization in Illinois, begged Harrison to release his pledged vote, in order that the President's personal choice might head the party in the senate.

The slim victory by no means patched the obvious party rift. Even the administration admitted that the President's Supreme court bill was virtually dead even then. Vice President Garner visited Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, leader of the opposition forces, and invited the opposition to write its own bill.

40 Hurt in Strike Riot

ALTHOUGH the independent steel plants were back at work, there was still plenty of discord along the labor front. Forty persons were injured in a wild riot among pickets of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee (affiliated with C. I. O.), loyal workers and police at the Corrigan-McKinney plant of the Republic Steel corporation in Cleveland.

A mob of strikers hurled rocks from a hillside upon cars of employees parked in the valley about the plant. Loyal workers attempted to drive the strikers away, and at one time 500 of them rushed out of the plant and set upon the picketing, trying to break up the fighting, relying chiefly on their tear gas guns. One striker was killed when a moving automobile, which was being stoned, got out of control and ran berserk through a picket line.

In Buffalo there was a serious footlock because of a strike of 1,000 grocery truck drivers and 1,000 butchers at four meat packing plants. As C. I. O. and A. F. of L. unionists co-operated in their demand for closed shops, residents of the city were forced to motor to the country for butter, eggs and vegetables.

'Joe' Robinson's Successor

THE Democratic state committee of Arkansas nominated Gov. Carl E. Bailey to be the late Joseph T. Robinson's successor as United States senator. He is forty-two years old.

Traditionally, having been nominated by the state committee, Bailey is "as good as" elected. He may be opposed in the elections which he will call himself, September 14, by a Republican or by other Democrats running as independents. Fossier Venable, who opposed Robinson in the 1936 primary, had indicated that if Bailey were nominated he would run in opposition. The state Republican committee was reported seeking an opponent for the governor.

Gov. Bailey is a former member of the Arkansas House of Representatives. He was elected to the Arkansas House in 1928 and served until 1932. ## Look Out, Playboys! Chorines Master Muskets

Tokyo.—If, as pulp-paper novels would have you believe, chorus girls are the champion "gold diggers," these dancers of the Osaka Girls' Opera troupe should be doubly dangerous. #### SAMMY JAY TOO EXCITED TO TALK STRAIGHT

SAMMY JAY was excited. Everybody who heard him knew that, and everybody who was anywhere near heard him. They would have had to be stone deaf not to have. Sammy is just like some people—when he gets just a little excited he begins to talk in a loud voice. The more excited he gets the louder he talks. By and by, when he gets very much excited, he screams. That is what he was doing this beautiful spring morning, screaming as no one ever had heard him scream before. Indeed, he was so excited that his tongue couldn't go fast enough and tripped over his words and mixed things up so that no one could make out what he was trying to say.

"What's Got Into You, Sammy Jay?" Demanded Peter.

He came flying out of the Green Forest, flying as fast as he could make his wings go, and screaming at the top of his lungs. He saw Jimmy Skunk coming down the Lone Little Path and flew to meet him.

"He's a stranger and he's black!" screamed Sammy.

"Who's a stranger and who's black?" asked Jimmy.

"And he's got great, big claws in his mouth!" continued Sammy.

Jimmy Skunk stopped short and stared very hard at Sammy Jay.

"Say that again," said he.

But just then Sammy caught sight of Peter Rabbit down by his dear Old Briar Patch. "Oh, I must tell Peter!" he screamed. "Peter! Peter! He's there! He's bigger than Farmer Brown's boy and he walks!" And all the time he was screaming this long before he was anywhere near the Old Briar Patch.

Jimmy Skunk was still staring after him and scratching his head in a puzzled kind of way, when along came Uncle Billy Possum.

Sweet and Low

Sweet and low in a bevy of striking silhouettes, this hat has a charm all its own. It is of navy blue felt, trimmed with narrow flanges of cerise, bright blue and navy belting ribbon. The cloche brim is youthful and flattering.

Uncle Billy grinned as he looked over toward the Old Briar Patch.

"Mistah Jaybird's done gone crazy," said he. "He's done gone crazy in his head. Whoever heard of anybody with great big claws in his mouth?"

Now, Peter could make no more sense of what Sammy was saying than could Jimmy Skunk and Uncle Billy Possum.

"Who walks, Sammy Jay? Don't most people walk? What's got into you, Sammy Jay?" demanded Peter.

But Sammy couldn't keep still long enough to answer questions, and off he flew toward the Smiling Pool in search of Billy Mink and Jerry Muskrat and Grandfather Frog, and as he flew he still screamed in the same excited way, and Peter heard something about "long teeth" and "big feet," all of course, made Peter very, very curious. He straightway started to hunt up Jimmy Skunk to see if Jimmy knew what it meant, and half way down the Lone Little Path he met Uncle Billy. With him was Uncle Billy Possum.

Peter's eyes were very wide open with wonder, and the first thing he said was: "What's the matter with Sammy Jay?"

Jimmy Skunk grinned and Uncle Billy shook his head sadly, though if Peter had looked sharply he would have seen a twinkle in Uncle Billy's eyes.

"Poor Sammy Jay," said Uncle Billy in the mournfullest tones.

"Poor Sammy Jay. He's foolish in his head, Peter. He's foolish in his head."

"Oh!" cried Peter. "Do you really think so, Uncle Billy? I thought he was just terribly excited."

Uncle Billy winked at Jimmy Skunk as he said: "Ah don't know, about the excitement, Br'er Rabbit, but when people talk about great big claws in somebody's mouth, Ah cert'nly think there is something the matter. If you ask me, Ah think Br'er Jay done gone crazy."

"Poor Sammy Jay," said Peter to himself, as he hopped away to find out what other people thought.

"Poor Sammy Jay! I guess Uncle Billy must be right and he really is crazy. He can't talk straight, so he must be crazy." And all the rest of that day Peter told everyone he met that Sammy Jay had gone crazy.

FIRST-AID TO AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

PROTECTION AGAINST TERMITES

I AM hearing more and more of damage to houses by termites, and from practically all sections of the country. Termites are now known to be the real cause of a destruction of wood that was formerly blamed on dry rot. It is a matter of fact that nature provides termites for the reduction of dead wood to mold. They are part of the scheme of things. They are pests only when they attack wood that mankind wants to preserve.

We cannot hope to exterminate termites. Our protection against them is to build our houses in such a way that they cannot be invaded.

Termite nests are always in the ground. In attacking a house, they do not set up nests in the wood, but travel back and forth between the wood and the home nest. Considering the damage that they can do, it seems only rational to build a house in such a way and of such materials that an attack will not be possible.

Foundations should be poured concrete, reinforced with steel bars to prevent cracking. In modern house designs, the first floor is on a level with the ground—or nearly so. This brings the floor beams within easy reach of termites. These beams should therefore be of steel instead of wood. Sills, studs, sheathing and other wood parts are also exposed. For protection, these wood parts should be impregnated with any one of several chemicals that will make them termite-proof.

Treated wood can be had through any lumber yard. The price will be somewhat increased, but considering the damage that is avoided, the extra cost can be regarded as insurance, and is certainly a small price to pay.

Termites are of three classes or castes. The largest caste is made up of the "workers," which do the damage. A second class, known as "soldiers," protect the workers against the attacks of ants and other enemies. Both of these castes are white; they are blind and never come to the surface. The third class is made up of winged black "reproductives." Once a year in the spring, occasionally also in the fall, they appear in a great swarm; they flutter about for a brief time, drop their wings, and disappear.

A swarm of these insects is a dangerous signal that no home owner should disregard. He should at once find out whether his house has been attacked. There will be no outward sign on the woodwork; the destruction will all be within and can be learned only by drilling small holes, by pounding, or in some other way that will indicate hollow-ness of the timber. He may find slender tunnels of clay over the surface of masonry, these being the paths by which the termites circulate from the nest in the group.

Information on how to proceed can be had from a pamphlet issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. The departments of agriculture of many states also have information.

With Equal Weight

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

NOT only Atlas bore the earth upon his shoulders. Also we have some small world of some small responsibility.

For our burdened only are the great. For others have them, each and all.

Yes, problems press with equal weight upon the mighty and the small.

Our own small world our own small way.

Each on his aching shoulder they little understand it, they concerned alone with large affairs.

Some little duty takes our time, Some little worry takes our sleep, Some little slope we have to climb, Some little family to keep.

I have my world, and you have yours, The little often larger than Some other at his ease endures, And quite forgets the little man.

The little burden may be great, The great be little, after all, At least they bear with equal weight Upon the mighty and the small.

Graphic Golf

By BEST BALL

POSITION OF RIGHT ARM

KEEP your eye on the golfer who is over-anxious to kill the ball and you no doubt will see him flap the right arm around so that at the top of the stroke it is almost straight out from the trunk of the body. From such a position it is very easy to make the mistake of coming out to the ball from the outside in, i.e., cutting across the ball and adding a slice. Furthermore such an extreme movement adds an unnecessary tension to this arm which it could very well do without. The proper method is to keep the right arm comfortably close to the right side. Tommy Armour for example keeps his right elbow tucked in close but possesses freedom of action nevertheless. Armour's is more or less of an extreme position; most of the players allow the right arm a trifle more freedom after the manner of Bobby Jones above. On the longer shots the Atlanta wizard's elbow is raised moderately and on the first stages of the downstroke, drops abruptly nearer the side. The cock of the wrists is in no manner disturbed by this motion and their power is saved to be utilized later on. The abrupt dropping of the right arm insures a swinging path from the inside, close to the body and brings the clubhead onto the ball straight along the line of flight.

Lesson for August 8

GOD FEEDS A PEOPLE.

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 16:1-20, 17:3-6. GOLDEN TEXT—Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh from the Father, James 1:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When God's People Were Hungry.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God Feeding His People.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How God Provides for Our Needs.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Supply Adequate for a Nation's Need.

Israel, led by God, is on a journey to the promised land. But to reach their goal they must pass through the wilderness. Not only are there weary miles to travel, but there are privations to be endured. Life is like that.

"People may be strong and hopeful at the beginning of a project, and must eventually and devoutly through the wilderness. Not only are there weary miles to travel, but there are privations to be endured. Life is like that.

Crocheted Flowers for Your Bedspread

You've seen spreads before, but never one like this with its large and small crocheted flowers! And don't think you must wait an "age" before it can be yours. Crochet hook, some string, and easily crocheted individual medallions form this rich all-over design. With the "key" pattern easy to remember, the "repeats" are a glorious pastime. Why not crochet some extra medallions and have a dresser scarf to match? In pattern 5817 you will find complete instructions for making the 9 inch medallion shown; an illustration of it and of all stitches used; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) to The Sewing Circle Household Arts Dept., 259 W. Fourteenth St., New York, N. Y.

THE FARM AND HOME

In planning wiring a house for electricity, lights should not be forgot for basement and attic stairways. They are not only convenient but may save injury from falls. The same is true of lights for front and back entrances to the house.

Milk and cream kept in tightly closed containers tend to develop undesirable "smothered" tastes and odors. It is better to cover with cheese cloth. Immediate cooling of milk by placing the cans in cold water is important, especially in summer.

Where wanted for hay only, Korean lespedeza is usually not cut until in full bloom, which is about the middle of August in most of Kentucky. Kobe, Tennessee 76, and common lespedeza are not ready until two or three weeks later.

Three years of tests at the Kentucky experiment station gave alfalfa the prize for swine grazing. Oats and rape placed second, with Korean lespedeza and bluegrass about equal as third. Alfalfa grazed pigs made better gains and consumed less corn.

Topping and suckering tobacco are receiving more attention, on the theory that these practices influence the thickness of the leaf. Overgrown tobacco is often of poor quality, is easily injured, and requires more space in the barn.

Save Clover Seed

The suggestion that farmers consider saving clover seed from this year's plantings is made in a statement from the college of agriculture, university of Kentucky. In many instances clover sowed last spring did so well that it should be cut either for hay or for seed.

Since there may be a shortage of clover seed next spring, together with the fact that much of this year's crop came from native seed, it is doubly important to save seed, crops men at the college believe.

Much clover last year was damaged by dry weather, and it is considered fortunate for Kentucky farmers that this year's seedlings did well in much of the state. It is said that there has been much improvement in clover growing since most farmers began using only native seed.

$15 Profit per Ewe

Forty western ewes, purchased as lambs two years ago, returned a labor income of $15 each this year for Virgil Williams, a farmer in Larue county, according to County Agent Frank G. Melton.

As three year olds this year, the flock produced 415 lb. of wool which sold for 40 cents a pound, a total of $166, or more than the feed bill. Fifty-six lambs were saved, worth, on the basis of those sold, $10 each, or $560. Wool and lambs totaled $726, or $18 a head. The total feed bill, including corn, oats, alfalfa, and shredded fodder, was $125.10.

More and Better Hay

More and better hay for Kentucky. So say county planning committees, according to a college of agriculture summary of their recommendations.

These committees, which have been at work about a year on the needs of agriculture in Kentucky, want greatly increased acreages of clover, alfalfa, and lespedeza. Three or four times more alfalfa should be grown, they think, and clover and lespedeza should be preferred to redtop, timothy, and wild grasses.

Soybeans and cowpeas would be relegated to bottom land where conditions prevent growing other crops, or to upland where crop failures call for emergency crops. It is recommended that the production of these two annuals be materially reduced.

Because alfalfa and lespedeza permit excessive washing, it is suggested that orchard grass be sowed with alfalfa and redtop or orchard grass or both with lespedeza. On sloping land neither lespedeza nor alfalfa should be seeded alone. Bluegrass or other grasses should be seeded with hay when hay grasses tend to "play out," it is stated, thus greatly improving the resulting pastures.

In the case of lespedeza alone, disking in the fall and seeding to a small grain cover crop are indicated. The small grain can be grazed or cut for hay or grain and another crop of lespedeza hay secured, if the season is favorable. Such a plan also protects the land over the winter.

Commonwealth of Kentucky Department of Highways Division of Construction NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received by the Department of Highways at its office, Frankfort, Kentucky, until 10:00 A.M. on the 27th day of August, 1937, at which time bids will be publicly opened and read for the improvement of:

MORGAN COUNTY FAS 455 C-GS. The Hazel Green-Mize Road, beginning at Mize and extending to end of state maintained road a distance of approximately 1.573 miles. Grade, drain, and low type surfacing construction.

Minimum wage rates applying on this project:
Skilled labor, 75c per hour.
Intermediate grade labor, 45c per hour.

Unskilled labor, 30c per hour. The special provisions for highway projects financed with federal aid highway funds available to the states for the fiscal years 1936, 1937, and 1938 apply on this project.

The attention of prospective bidders is called to the prequalification requirements and necessity for securing certificate of eligibility.

The attention of bidders is directed to the special provisions covering subcontracting or assigning the contract and to the use of domestic materials. Further information, bidding proposals, etc., will be furnished upon application to the Frankfort office. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

SHOULD TURN EGGS WHILE INCUBATING

Poultry Expert Cites Four Fundamental Factors.

By Dr. W. C. Thompson, Poultry Husbandman, New Jersey Experiment Station, WNO Service.

Temperature, ventilation, moisture and change of position are the four fundamental factors in obtaining good hatchings in incubators.

Changing the position of the embryos during the three weeks of development within the shell is very important. Mother hens, incubating their setting of eggs on the old-fashioned nest, usually move the eggs beneath them at least twice during the day, thus tending to equalize the exposure of each egg to the conditions of temperature, fresh air and moisture, all of which must be uniformly applied to each egg.

In the operation of the modern incubator, man can well copy this rule of the hen. Experimental evidence seems to indicate that he can go the hen one better by doubling the number of turnings during each 24-hour period.

If hatching eggs are changed in position once every six hours, optimum results, other things being equal, will generally result. It is partly a matter of preventing the sticking of the developing embryo to some one position within the shell, and partly a matter of equalizing the exposure of the respective eggs to the conditions which will bring about normal, natural embryonic growth.

Most modern incubators are provided with devices for turning eggs. It is important to be regular and consistent in this practice. It is one of those many small items which, taken collectively, spell successful hatching and the production of chicks.

Warm Soil Is Necessary

to Grow the Sweet Corn

With fading winter appetites hungering for such spring dishes as roastin' ears, home and commercial vegetable gardeners are advised that no definite date can be given for the safe planting of sweet corn, since the seed will not germinate or grow until the soil is fairly warm, according to Russell Weaver, of the department of horticulture, University of Illinois, college of agriculture.

Planting a number of varieties which vary as to time of maturity is a recommended method of obtaining a succession of roasting ears throughout the season. A good selection of white corn may be had in planning Howling Mob, Early Evergreen, Stowell's Evergreen, Narrows Grain Evergreen or Country Gentleman at the same time. A succession of yellow varieties may be obtained by using Purdue Bantam, Golden Bantam, (Bantams), Golden Cross Bantam and Yellow or Golden Evergreen.

Yield and uniformity are much greater where hybrid seed is used. Hybrids, because of their vigor and possibly because of some inherent resistance, may be less susceptible to bacterial wilt than open-pollinated types.

Selecting New Fleck

Poultrymen who are selecting their new breeding flock, if they are planning on raising their own baby chicks this spring, says D. M. Meyer, of the Missouri station, should retain only those hens which are healthy. Hens which have laid well certainly should be included. Satisfactory future breeders are also indicated by the tightly bleached skin in the case of yellow skinned breeds, and an old, dry coat of feathers, a sign of late molting. Pullets to be used should have large, rugged bodies, well covered with muscle and fat.

They should show early sexual maturity by well developed comb and wattles, and a large, pliable abdomen with flexible pin bones that are spread apart. A healthy flock should be the aim of all poultrymen.

Higher Farming Costs

Labor and products bought by the farm in 1937 are predicted by the Department of Agriculture to cause a sharp increase in the cost of farming. Price for feed for live stock and seed will stay high until the crop of the 1937 season replenishes the present drought-reduced supply. Farm machinery, fertilizer, and building supplies are expected to advance some in price due mostly to the increased cost of labor and material.

Keep Brood Sows Gaining

Brood sows should be kept gaining at the rate of about one pound per day up to farrowing time. Difficulty in farrowing, pig eating and poor milk flow are often traceable in inadequate rations, states a writer in Wallace's Farmer. A good ration includes about a pound of oats per sow daily, a small amount of protein supplement such as tankage or soy bean meal, free access to legume hay and enough corn to put on the desired gain.

Your Home

CONSTRUCTION-EQUIPMENT REMODELING

You May Have to Sell

Most persons, when they build houses for themselves, do so with the idea of creating homes in which they will live for the rest of their lives. To put it another way, they do not build with the thought of selling. But this does not mean that they should not have strongly in mind resale value, for we never know what the future has in store for us, or for our children. A home should be thought of as a family asset which, if necessary, can be turned into as much money as it cost, and possibly more.

All this has been repeatedly urged upon home builders, but it needs especial stress nowadays for these are times of much economic uncertainty and rapid change in urban districts. How to protect resale value? First, make sure that your building site has no legal encumbrances; is well drained; has good soil; has no objectionable swamps, woods or buildings near it; is conveniently situated with respect to highways, railroad stations, schools, churches, stores and amusement places; and is located in a district that—by reason of its good repair, and landscape—can be a desirable residence district.

The Electric Kitchen Maid

Get a group of housewives together, and what do they talk about? Well—perhaps it wouldn't do to try to answer that question fully. But it is practically certain that some part of the conversation is devoted to kitchens. And why not? The kitchen is the housewife's workshop. It is only natural that she should take a keen interest in its equipment and decoration and should like to compare kitchen notes with her friends.

No part of the house has, in recent years, undergone a greater transformation than the kitchen.

The purpose of this transformation has been to lighten the labor of the kitchen and to make the room a more cheerful, pleasant place in which to work. In two ways the effort to lessen labor has progressed: first, by rearrangement of equipment to save unnecessary steps and motions; and second, by the introduction of more efficient, labor-saving equipment. Electricity has, of course, played a tremendous part in providing equipment to lighten labor.

Give Daughter a Break!

When you plan the porch for your new house, don't skimp on it. If a porch is worth having at all, it is worthy of being made a genuine outdoor room. Make it spacious enough to accommodate at least a table, chairs and a swing couch—a place where your family and guests can gather comfortably and where you can dine for the sake of coolness and variety. If possible, have your porch increased with screens in summer and

HEY MOTORISTS! LISTEN!

RAILROAD DRIVERS

By THE LITTLE ENGINEER

NEXT time you are a passenger on the 20th Century, the National Limited or any other crack railroad train notice how the engineer gets you into a station and out of it and how he takes curves.

The absolutely expert train or automobile driver has in his driving one quality above all others—smoothness. His vehicle fairly floats to a stop and around curves with no jerks or shocks and no lurching of passengers from side to side. Brakes are applied so adroitly that deceleration, although swift, is continuous and comfortable. Same thing in starting. A well driven train or motor car almost oozes into action and the various increases of throttle from standing to full speed are imperceptible to riders.

In driving an automobile around curves there are three phases of handling the wheel—winding the wheel into the curve, holding it steady for as short a time as possible, then winding it out of the curve. If the winding is done suddenly and the car is hurled into and out of curves the passengers are thrown about or lurching uncomfortably. If the winding is done smoothly and progressively there is no sharp application of momentum or centrifugal force and the riders will not even know they have been around a curve at all.

It takes time to become a "smooth" driver but it's well worth while. The crack train engineer was many years becoming the artist he is.

All persons having claims against the estate of Levisa J. Whiteaker, deceased, will present the same to the undersigned, properly proven, at once. This 28th day of July, 1937. J. BLAINE NICKELL, Adm. of estate of Levisa J. Whiteaker.

Indeed, it is now possible to have a completely electrified kitchen in which manual labor is reduced to a fractional part of what it would be in an old-fashioned kitchen. Electric refrigerators and electric stoves; electric hot water supplies and electric dishwashers; electric garbage disposers and electric mixers; electric toasters, fans, lights, clocks, percolators, orange squeezers, grills, roasters—these and other electric appliances put power at the disposal of the housewife for practically everything she has to do in the kitchen, and enable her to use it under comfortable conditions.

The cost of an all-electric kitchen is not excessive. Too, it should be balanced against savings of food and time, and the lower cost of house lighting that results from the reduced rate given the householder with an all-electric kitchen.

Brick Graces The Home Fire

No matter how efficient the heating system the home builder nowadays installs in his new house, he is almost certain to insist that it shall also have one or more fireplaces. For nothing has "come back" more strongly than the fireplace. Neglected for a while after it ceased to be a necessity for heating, it has come to be recognized as a necessity for gracious living. Man has learned that the fireplace has an appeal to certain of his more civilized emotions that it is a stimulus to kindness and hospitality and wholesome social intercourse.

It is safe to say that a very large majority of the fireplaces that are being built into modern homes are constructed of brick. For brick is so flexible a medium, lending itself to such a wide variety of designs and surface treatment, that it is easily made to harmonize with the decorative scheme of any room.

Well Burned Common Brick

Well burned common brick, which is obtainable in a wide variety of shades and textures and markings, is an ideal material for the fireplace. Not only does it look well, but the average housewife will appreciate the comparative ease with which it can be kept clean. Stone fireplaces, though admirable in some settings, are seldom adapted to the modern interior and are always great catchers of dust. Common brick, which is not expensive, is the all-around fireplace construction material.

RESURRECTION RIVER

SYNOPSIS

Warren Lovett, thirty-three, junior partner in the powerful Wellington, Parks & Lovett, Incorporated Mines of Chicago, which engages in questionable transactions, plans to make a secret coup in the Canadian Arctic, where a few years before a rich but inaccessible mining field has been discovered on Resurrection river, which flows into Dynamic Bay. Patricia, high spirited and beautiful daughter of crusty old Jasper Wellington, who is engaged to Warren, decides to accompany him. Over her father's objections, he agrees to take her. They go by plane. Patricia meets "Poleon," a French Canadian prospector, who tells her there are only 300 prospectors in the field and that because of the difficulties they are handling on by a thread. Patricia is disturbed when Warren will not disclose what his secret mission is. She visits the prospectors' camp and is distressed to see how discouraged they are. She meets Sam Honeywell, a friend of Poleon's. Moved by the plight of Bill Fornier, a prospector, who, though frailty ill, struggles to hold his claim, Pat decides to help him. Informed by Poleon of the scheming head of a family of Parisian retainers of the company, about his bending the prospectors, Warren tries to convince her. He tells her that Craig Tarlton, with whom she had once been in love, is now deputy mining inspector for the Resurrection river area.

CHAPTER III—Continued

Poleon was brewing tea over an open fire in front of his tent. Patricia accepted a cup, chatted casually a few moments, then led around to her topic.

"Poleon, I hear that your mining inspector is a man called Craig Tarlton. Do you know him?"

"Oo, oo. We been close friends long tam, Craig and me."

"I know him too, Poleon. He used to be connected with my father's company."

"My goodness, dat so? Wen was dat?"

"Five—no, six years ago. He was one of our geologists, the youngest and most brilliant man on our staff. In fact he headed our Winnipeg department. I met him at one of our house parties when he came down to Chicago; and after that I—I saw him—once or twice. How long has he been here?"

"Four year, come fall."

Patricia shut her eyes in blinding despair. Four years of buried exile, four long years at this Arctic outpost—it meant that the world had beaten him.

She could have sobbed at the contrast between Craig's early genius and his obscurity now. That monumental treatise of his on the Archaeozoic rocks of upper Huron—it had led to the discovery of the earliest known forms of life on earth; and he had written it at the age of twenty-three! And that radio "divining rod" which he had perfected while on her father's staff—the patent leases on it had brought in more than a million dollars for Wellington, Parks & Lovett since the time he contemptuously flung his invention at them and resigned and vanished.

"Poleon, is he around here now? Where does he live?"

Poleon gestured across Resurrection. "He live over dere beyon' de camp. Right now I tink he doctoring Bill Fornier at Bill's tent."

He went on to tell her that Craig had taken Bill Fornier under his special care and was looking out for him. It was Craig who had staked those "fine-dandy" silver claims for Bill, because Bill didn't know much about rocks.

How like Craig, Patricia thought, to mother this stricken prospector, how proud he was on the surface, with the pride of genius; but how warm of heart beneath, especially for the under-dogs.

"Take me over there, Poleon," she asked, reckless of consequences. "I want to—Craig and I were—I'd like to see him again. Won't you?"

"Sure, sure," Poleon agreed. "You being ole friend's, I bet he lak to see you, too."

They floated Poleon's patched canoe, skinned across Resurrection, landed on the north bank, and walked back through the drogue of trees behind the prospectors' camp. Poleon pointed at a large cabin up ahead, nestling in a little hollow and half-hidden by minaret pines.

"Dat's hees cabane dere, Mees Pat."

Patricia stopped. "You needn't go on with me, Poleon," she bade. She wanted to see Craig alone, not knowing what might break between him and her. "Go back to Sam Honeywell's tent and wait for me, won't you, please?"

When Poleon was out of sight, she stepped behind a rock for a dab of powder and a hasty pat at her hair. Then she went on toward the cabin, with slow hesitant footsteps. What would he think of her? And she of him? Most likely, she told herself, this meeting would be awfully flat. There was nothing quite so dead as a dead romance.

The little hollow was bare of timber except at the upper end where the cabin stood. Carpeted with reindeer moss, it was a riot of flower colors. Under the perpetual sun, blue saxifrage and lupine and Arctic poppies had sprung swiftly into blossom, seizing their few short weeks of summer to grow, bloom and seed.

Halfway up the hollow Patricia came to a granite boulder with the words "Arctic Circle" chiseled into it. A little thrill went through her. Suddenly reminded, she glanced at her wrist watch. Twelve o'clock, midnight—and the sun shining as goldenly as ever on the poppies and blue saxifrage! A strange region, this Arctic land. "As certain as day and night" was a common saying throughout the world; but that axiom did not hold in this country. Day and night, those two infallibles, were not infallible here.

Stepping gingerly across the Arctic Circle, she went on to the cabin. No one answered her knock. She rapped again. No answer. The door was open, so she stepped upon the threshold of Craig's home and looked inside.

The cabin was a one-room affair, but big and airy and light. Patricia caught the sweet smell of sawed pine logs, of which the cabin was built, and the rather pleasant odor of much pipe-smoking. In one corner stood a table holding a microscope in glass cage, a delicate scale in another cage, a small assay outfit, an array of chemicals; and on the floor beside the table there was a full box of dynamite.

A wing-broken thrush, with its wing neatly splinted and bandaged, was hopping along the window ledge, pecking at bread crumbs which Craig had put there for it.

But it was Craig's books that struck Patricia's eye. Walls, mantels, shelves and every conceivable niche overflowed with books.

With a strange quivering inside of her she turned to his pipe rack and looked hurriedly at the dozen old meerschaums, searching for the pipe which she had given him that time at God's lake. It was not there.

Through the south window she glimpsed a man coming up the little hollow, a tall rangy figure carrying a satchel like a doctor's. With a gasp she fled for the door. But she was too late—from the woods edge the man looked up and saw her in his doorway.

Intensely mortified that Craig had caught her intruding, she mustered up what courage she could, walked down toward the granite rock, and defiantly waited.

In the weird slant light of the midnight sun Craig Tarlton came toward her. Often Patricia had fancied meeting him again, but never had she imagined that it would be in so far a land and so strange a place as this poppy hollow in the Arctic.

Beside the boulder that marked the Arctic Circle, Craig confronted her. One long glance at his face, and all Patricia's fear that he was a man defeated went crashing to the ground. No man with those penetrating eyes, with that air of personal might, could possibly be defeated. He was still Craig Tarlton, steeper and more mature than when she had known him, but otherwise not greatly changed.

His outdoor life had made him hard and virile; and his face was weathered dark by summer sun and winter blizzard. As usual in the old time, he was bareheaded. The black waves of his hair awoke a storm of memories in Patricia.

A canoe, moon-silvered water, the night sounds of the wilderness, her fingers caressing those ripples of his hair. The very clothes he wore were like those he had worn at God's lake. Everything about him brought back poignant recollections of that God's lake idyll.

"How d'you do?" Craig said coldly, as though to a stranger.

Patricia fought down her trembling emotions. "I—I'm sorry I intruded," she stammered. "I wanted a drink of water, and no one answered my knock."

"Or were you 'slumming,' as you were this afternoon in the camp?" Craig asked.

The ease with which he spiked her made Patricia angry—at him and at herself. She hated people who could read her, and Craig seemed to be reading her through and through.

"Yes, I was—I was slumming!" she snapped. "I wanted to see whether you'd 'gone native' or not."

"And what do you conclude?"

"I concluded that you hadn't."

"Thanks," Craig said dryly.

She waited for him to say something more. To invite her into his cabin. But he did not. It seemed he did not even care to stay and chat with her, for he kept the satchel in his hand instead of putting it down. There was no warmth or friendliness whatsoever in his attitude; no remembrance at all of those twenty days at God's lake.

As Patricia met his eyes she was suffused with shame, anger and humiliation. How could he stand there and look at her so coldly, as though he and she had never seen each other before? Surely this meeting had brought that hauntingly beautiful interlude back to him. Surely he must be thinking and remembering that with her he had his first lover.

She strove to make him talk to her. "I've always wanted to ask you, Craig, why you resigned from our staff so suddenly. I was thunderstruck when I heard about it."

She confessed candidly. "I came back from Italy. I wrote you. I apologized for my picking that quarrel of ours; but you were gone, no one knew where."

"I resigned because I didn't like the deal that your father was putting across on those Flin-Flon operating companies, Miss Wellington."

Patricia noticed the "Miss." Was he rebuking her for using his personal name?

"Yes, I knew about your run-in with dad, Craig; but why did that keep you from writing to me?"

"I saw no occasion for writing you," he returned bluntly. "You, the haughty heiress, ordered me to forget about God's lake—and I did."

With her girl's pride smarting, Patricia flung back at him, "Well, so did I forget it!" She was seized with an impulse to cut him cold and leave. But she could not force herself to turn away. Instead she made a last despairing bid for a token of warmth from him. "Craig, we don't have to be enemies, do we, because we once were friends?" It was on her lips to tell him how bitterly she had regretted that quarrel and how she had hoped for a year afterward; but pride kept her from confessing that. "I've often thought about you, Craig, and tried to find out something about you. What have you been doing since you left Winnipeg that time?"

Yes, the syndicated patent rights brought in about a million and a half, I believe."

Craig answered with a laconic briefness. "Yes, west. Vancouver. That was a zinc-separation process. Yes, the syndicated patent rights brought in about a million and a half, I believe."

Patricia wondered what had become of that million and a half. His cabin showed that he had no money at all now except his meager salary. Why had he flung away a second fortune, to the last cent? What had happened to him out there on the West Coast?

Just then she did not pause over these questions.

"By the way, Miss Wellington," he asked her, "why did you give

"How d'you do?" Craig said coldly.

Bill Fornier that $500 this afternoon?"

"Why—why because I wanted to?"

"Why did you want to?" he insisted.

"Because—well—" Patricia groped for words to explain her international act. She herself did not fully understand the strange feelings which had gripped and shaken her to the depths that afternoon in Bill Fornier's tent. "I don't know why I did, unless—well, I saw him faint while he was working, and then Poleon told me about his sickness and his family and the fight he's putting up; and I—I just had to help him a little."

"In return for that money, Fornier wrote you out a paper giving you part interest in his claims, did he not?"

"That was merely—" He refused to take money outright, it hurt his pride; so I let him make that arrangement with me. He believes I meant it."

"Do I understand that you were just playing Lady Bountiful to him? That your $500 were, ah, angel money?"

"What do you mean?" Patricia demanded. In Craig's sharp questions she felt some lurking suspicion of her act. What under heaven did he suspect her of?

Craig said: "Anyone who's connected with the Wellington company or who's of the Wellington blood—I simply can't imagine 'em being bountiful to anybody or having a speck of human sympathy for any person, especially for a poor illiterate rock-hog like Bill Fornier. What did you do with the partnership agreement that Bill wrote you?"

"I've got it with me. Here," She fumbled in the back of her vanity case. "But what're you driving at? I don't get you."

Well then, get this," he said, with a sternness that awed her: "Bill Fornier is facing death; those claims are all he's got on earth, all that stands between his family and complete destitution. For anybody to euche him out of them or edge them away from him—I can't think of a more heartless and mercenary thing to do."

The reason behind Craig's sharp questioning burst upon Patricia like a bombshell.

"You mean," she gasped, "that I—I'm trying to steal those claims of his?"

"I don't know whether you are or not. You may not be. On the other hand, Warren Lovett may have put you up to this job. For Bill's sake I'm taking no chances. If you're on the level, how about tearing up Bill's partnership agreement? Here and now."

Patricia went white in the face with furious anger. She had never been so insulted in all her life.

"Why you, you scurriously bound!" she stormed at him. "If I were a man, I'd—I'd fight you, I'd hammer you till you—you . . . You're a liar! You're a low-down—low-down—"

"You take back what you said! Say it's a lie! You won't?" She drew back her hand and gave him a stinging slap on the cheek.

"That's what I think of you and your lying suspicions!" She tore Bill Fornier's paper to bits and flung the pieces in his face. "Don't you ever speak to me again! Don't you ever look at me again! I hate you!"

Patricia ran down the little hollow fairly blinded by her furious tears. She felt that she had never hated any person on earth so violently as she hated Craig Tarlton. It was not this Bill Fornier matter, not Craig's unjust and cruel suspicion about it, that stung the worst. It was his stony coldness. For him God's lake was dead; she was dead. But he wasn't dead for her. This meeting had brought her an aching, almost terrifying resurrection of that God's lake idyll.

CHAPTER IV

In the event-filled days that followed, Patricia made up her mind half a dozen times to flee from Dynamic Bay and return home. "Get away from Craig! Three thousand miles away!"—that was what her good sense warned her.

But she found it utterly impossible to tear herself free. The hands of a sick man, Bill Fornier, held her there. The hands of 300 men, those homeless and disorganized prospectors, were reaching out to hold her there. And then, above everything else, Craig.

At Bill's tent and in the main camp she met Craig frequently. They had no more quarrels—his curt nod and "how d'you do" gave no opportunity; but every encounter was a bad emotional upset for her. She told herself, and with a good deal of truth, that she hated Craig Tarlton and wished that their paths had never crossed again; yet she contrived to meet him almost daily, and she could no more stop thinking about him than she could stop breathing.

For a few days at first she put her pride in her pocket and made little overtures of friendliness; but Craig ignored them, ignored her.

"Why," she asked herself, in tears at his rebuffs, "does he single me out? Little by little she pieced together the answer to that. He disliked her father intensely; disliked what he called the "jungle code" of the company; considered her a shallow, "snooty," aristocratic creature who had wasted the most precious years of her life in a butterfly existence.

This opinion of his had so much truth to it that it stung.

In a hazy way she began to understand the story of Craig's four Arctic years. His exile was altogether a voluntary one. In the city country—DeCarlie told her this—he could have been freelancing as a high-priced consultant or could have headed the staff of some big mining company. But he wanted nothing of that. Of his own personal fortunes he was entirely careless, with the carelessness of a man who had "made his millions." He disliked made money twice while still in his twenties—and could do handsomely again if he wished. He simply did not wish. A quiet ebb in his books, the harsh stern Arctic and his eighteen hundred a year—that was his own free choice.

In a way he had turned monk. Certainly he was that toward her! Through all the clash and turmoil of her emotions toward Craig, she fought to be loyal to Warren. Her engagement, her coming marriage, was almost the only rock of surety in her storm-tossed world; and she campaigned strenuously to build up between Warren and herself the confidence and intimacy which had been the secret goal of her Arctic trip. But Warren gave her no chance. He seemed to be blind to her desire or else incapable of giving her the honesty that she asked, for her attempts to break down that sense of strangeness between them were wretched failures.

Poleon came to her tent one morning, much worried.

"Mees Pat, Bill Fornier is going back into de barren to hees claim-block. He's in no condection to make dat long hard canoe treep. It's 200 mile, upstream mile. I've argue' wit' heem, but he won't listen. Mebbe he listen to you."

Patricia shook her head. She herself had failed with Bill yesterday and stubbornly insisted that he simply must get back to his claims and work on them, at least for a couple of months. There were other prospectors near-by to watch after him, he was sure; and he would return to the Bay before winter shut down.

"Is he still planning to leave today, Poleon?"

"Ou! Jus' as soon as he can baggage up."

All right. You go over and help him pack. If we can't stop him from going, the next best thing is to see that he gets there in short order!"

do a few summery things in a summery frock such as the one at the right. In dimity or swiss it will make you more youthful and charming than many a more ornate style (and after all the girl of his dreams must be young and charming). A good suggestion might be to cut a carbon copy, while you're about it, in sheer wool with long sleeves. Then there'll be nothing to worry about when a cool evening happens along.

Hot Weather is Here—Beware of Biliousness!

Have you ever noticed that in very hot weather your organs of digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Perhaps you may have sick headache, nausea and dizziness or blind spells on suddenly rising. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious and your bowel actions sluggish or insufficient.

These are some of the more common symptoms or warnings of biliousness or so-called "torpid liver," so prevalent in hot climates. Don't neglect them. Take Calomel, the improved calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts, combined. You will be delighted with the prompt relief they afford. Trial package ten cents, family pkg. twenty-five cents. At drug stores. (Adv.)

Next Best If you can't choose your lot in life, try to make it comfortable. Late Regret A hundred years of regret will not pay a farthing of debt.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

"I'M HAVING the time of my life," announced Helen B., whose husband just lost a lot of money in a fire that destroyed his place of business. "Because Frank and I are back where we started out, and in spite of all the ups and downs we feel like honeymooners again."

"Of course, I'm doing my own work because we can't afford a maid. It's the first time I've really worked in this kitchen."

"I'll really rolled up my sleeves and went to work here, there were more things wrong with this kitchen! I wish I'd known before how much time and energy it wasted after all it's as good economy to save the maid steps as to save myself."

"To begin with the sink was much too low so that an average person had to lean way over to use it."

"Then I found that the cabinet where we kept silver, dishes and cutlery and mixing bowls was across the room from everything else, while the pots and pans and groceries were on the other side of the room near the stove. The refrigerator was adjacent to the sink. "I have had the sink raised but I can't move it or the refrigerator or the stove to bring the three in reaching distance. I could get cupboards around the sink-refrigerator unit though. I had all the space below the sink made into cupboards, then turned the corner with another cabinet that ran around the adjacent wall. Here I made room for all cutlery, silver, dishes, mixing bowls and groceries and most of the pots and pans. I left the frying pans and the like alongside of the stove but kept all those that would have to be mixed in or fixed ahead in the cupboard by the sink where the groceries were."

"Then I bought a kitchen table on wheels, that I could pull from my working unit to the stove. This works fine, and with a couple of high stools to sit on my kitchen is as handy as you please."

"Frank and I did all the work—he's a pretty good carpenter, and I did the painting. All these changes called for a new color scheme so we decided on Swedish blue for the kitchen walls, and yellow ceilings, yellow wash curtains and some yellow pottery on a shelf just for show."

Even at a Picnic.

She's the kind of a lady who can be a duchess on any occasion, even at a picnic. And her house is like that, too, gracious and poised and yet unpretentious with an effortless ease.

We were driving along her street one hot, hot afternoon recently, and on an impulse decided to stop in.

And there she was looking fresh as a daisy in a pink linen dress and her hair just out from a wet comb. The house was pleasantly orderly (but not nasty-nice—after all she has a rambunctious pair of children who take care of that). "Just a second," she said when she had seated us in a breeze, "I'll be back with tea."

She flew out to the kitchen and before we'd fanned our fan a dozen fans, there she was with a tray of ice tea and a plate of oatmeal cookies.

As she sat down before that tray and served the tea, we thought what a thoroughly successful woman she was. Not famous. Not even rich. But doing a perfectly splendid job of making a pleasant home for her family, and that's no sinecure. That living room seemed like a haven on a hot day. Very pale aquamarine walls, a mulberry broadloom rug that somehow didn't seem hot because it made such a shady background for the slip covers of very flowery chintz on an aquamarine ground. The curtains were plain aquamarine chintz lined with cream and tied back with heavy mulberry cord.

There was a room that would seem like a cool and tranquil retreat in summer and like a hospitable room of friendly warmth in winter, so versatile and satisfying was it.

BERRIES SOLVE DESSERT RIDDLE

Shortcake, Cobbler, Pie, Pudding Popular in Summer.

By EDITH M. BARBER

BERRY season is welcome for many reasons but for none more than that it practically solves the summer dessert question. We do not mind how many times these berries repeat themselves, plain, with cream, in shortcakes, cobbles, rolls, cottage puddings, in plain fruit pies or in cream custard pies.

For a cobbler, the fruit is always baked with the dough which is the same as that used for shortcake. Put the berries or sliced fruit in a well buttered baking pan, sprinkle with sugar and cover with a soft dough. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 400 degrees Fahrenheit. This same dough is used for a roll. It is made stiff enough to roll into an oblong piece, which is sprinkled with fruit and sugar and rolled tightly. This is baked also in a moderately hot oven. A custard sauce, a hard sauce, or cream sauce with this. For "puddings" the fruit and sugar are put into greased custard cups. The dough is put over this and they are then steamed thirty to forty minutes.

This same dough is used for apple, peach or pear dumplings which may be either steamed or baked. At our house we always had to have some each way to satisfy the preferences of the family.

A favorite pudding is a sponge cake with whipped cream and strawberries. This may be made into a more elaborate dessert by putting ice cream between the layers of cake, covering with crushed berries and garnishing with whipped cream. Meringue with ice cream and strawberries or other fruit sauce is a dessert which fits a party meal nicely. Sometimes you can buy them ready to use but they are not difficult to make.

Meringues.

4 egg whites
1 1/4 cups powdered sugar, or
1 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg whites very stiff, add the sugar gradually. Beat until the mixture will hold its shape. Stir in flavoring. Drop by tablespoons on to a wet board, covered with glazed paper. Bake about thirty minutes in a very slow oven, 250 degrees Fahrenheit.

Fresh Fruit Pudding.

6 slices buttered bread
1 quart raspberries
1 cup sugar
Whipped cream

Crush berries with sugar, if fresh, or crush canned fruit. Trim crust from bread and line a greased bowl with the slices, cutting corners so that the pieces meet. Pour in the berries, cover with bread, set plate on top of this, so that it is pressed down with the weight, and put in the refrigerator twenty-four hours. Turn out of mold, garnish with whipped cream and serve.

Preserved Cherries.

4 pounds cherries
4 pounds sugar

Wash cherries, remove the stems and stones. Cover with sugar and let stand two hours. Set on stove and bring slowly to a boil, stirring occasionally. Cook until the cherries are tender. Fill hot jars and seal. A few pits cooked with the fruit improves the flavor.

Note:—Currants and huckleberries may be preserved in the same way.

Medley Marmalade.

2 quarts raspberries
2 quarts strawberries
2 quarts currants
4 1/2 pounds sugar

Mash the berries, add the sugar and boil about forty-five minutes until thick, stirring occasionally. Pack and seal in clean, hot jars.

Apricot Blossom.

3 parts gin
2 parts orange juice
1 part pineapple juice
1 part apricot brandy
Lemon juice to taste
Cracked ice

Mix all ingredients and shake with ice until outside of cocktail shaker is frosted.

Cherry-Pineapple Jam.

4 quarts pitted cherries
2 cups crushed pineapple
Sugar

Combine fruits and add an equal weight of sugar. Heat slowly to boiling. Simmer three-quarter hour. Pour into platters. Cover with glass and set in the sun until the desired consistency is reached. Pour into hot jars and seal.

Cucumber Sandwiches.

Spread bread before slicing with softened butter. Slice and cut into rounds. Arrange sliced cucumbers which have been crisped in salt water for one-half hour, on the rounds. Spread with mayonnaise to which a little onion juice or horseradish has been added. Cover with other spread rounds of bread.

Coconut Cup Custard.

2 eggs
4 tablespoons sugar
2 cups milk
1 cup coconut
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Beat eggs very lightly. Beat in sugar. Add milk slowly. Add coconut and flavoring. Pour into cups which have been greased lightly with butter. Stand cups in a pan of water and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees Fahrenheit) one hour.

Just a Little Smile

NEEDED LUBRICATION

Stubblefield—So you and your neighbors are not on speaking terms any longer?

Sneeberg—No, all diplomatic relations are suspended.

Stubblefield—How did it come about?

Sneeberg—My neighbor sent me a can of oil and told me to use it on my lawnmower when I started to cut the grass at six in the morning.

Stubblefield—And what did you do about that?

Sneeberg—I sent it back and told him to use some of it on his wife's voice box when she started to sing at 11 in the night.—Pathfinder Magazine.

KNOWS HER PERFUMES

"Her atmosphere is always so sweet."

"Yes; she has good taste in choosing her scents."

Unconvincing Object Lesson

"You are encouraging your boy Josh to leave home?"

"Yep," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "I reckon that 'ud be fur the best."

"Can't you persuade him to work?"

"No. I do my best to persuade him that hard work and economy is the makin' of a young man. Then he jes' looks at me in a way that makes me feel like I wasn't nothin' in his eyes but a bad example."

Schooled

"This book of Universal Knowledge will tell you everything you ought to know," declared the agent at the door.

"Don't need it," growled Mr. Grouch, "my wife tells me all that—and a lot more besides."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Time!

A visitor to the nut house was trying to find out the right time. He had to catch a train. . . His watch had stopped and he hurried into the office. . . No one was there but an inmate. . . The visitor looked at the wall clock.

"Is that clock right?" he asked. "Don't be silly," the nut replied in disgust. "If that clock was right, d'ya think it would be here?"—New York Journal.

SHAKE THE ASHES

"I'm afraid the fires of my husband's affections are burning low."

"You're not using the right fuel, my dear."

Pen-Point?

Literary Man (at the ball)—Are you familiar with John Masfeldt? Lowbrow Flapper—What'd you mean? I'm never familiar with anyone.—Yale University Record.

Remembers Her History

Mother—Now Janey, be a nice girl and give your little brother part of your apple. Janey—Not me, mother. That was what my Sunday School teacher said Eve did. And you know how she's been criticized ever since.

Depends on Point of View

Chinaman—Can you tell me where the depot is? Stranger—Are you lost? Chinaman—No, me here. Depot lost.

Early Education

"Do you enjoy going to school?" "Very much," replied the bright little boy. "Of course, the school isn't very entertaining. But the ride there and back is always pleasant."

Perfect Score

Boy—Whoopie! Dad—Why so happy? Boy—I made 100 in school. Dad—What subject? Boy—Arithmetic 30, Spelling 50, and Geography 20.

UNIVERSALLY POPULAR

The "Sunday School Lesson" published each week in this newspaper has been adopted by thousands of church instructors throughout the United States as a regular part of their weekly work.

It is a review and exposition of the international lesson for each week, prepared by Dean Harold L. Lundquist of the Moody Bible Institute at Chicago, a recognized leader in the nation's church work. Dean Lundquist has been active in teaching youthful groups for years, thereby acquiring an insight into the needs of these people for understandable explanations of Bible passages.

In view of his accomplishments in church work, it is not surprising that Dean Lundquist's exposition of the weekly Sunday School lesson is being used in almost every community of the nation. As teacher or student you will find it extremely helpful.
